

LEIRUBAKKI

A ONE-OF-A-KIND
PLACE IN

Iceland

Leirubakki is an old manor farm in south Iceland, only 100 kilometers from Iceland's capital, Reykjavík. Sheep and horses have been raised at Leirubakki for more than 1000 years, and in recent years a diverse range of services for tourists has been developed there. The farm now boasts a new hotel and an outstanding restaurant, in addition to facilities for meetings and conferences. It is also an information center for tourists and hosts the Hekla Center, where one can enjoy an innovative and stylish exhibition on Iceland's most famous and active volcano, Hekla. Hekla is a massive, lofty mountain, 1,491 meters high, towering over the district to which Leirubakki belongs.

Outstanding location

Not far from Reykjavík, Hotel Leirubakki is extremely well located in the center of the South, and is only a one-hour drive away from most of the finest historical sites and natural treasures in Iceland such as Mt. Hekla and the renowned Landmannalaugar volcanic hills, as well as Þingvellir, Gullfoss, and Geysir.

The Hekla Center.

The village of Vík on the south coast is nearby, and an incredible number of beautiful places are even closer.

Very many tourists choose to stay at Hotel Leirubakki for more than one night, making Leirubakki their headquarters for their summer holidays, driving through the beautiful districts of South Iceland during the day or going fishing or horseback riding, and then in the evening enjoying the gourmet cuisine that the chefs at Hotel Leirubakki and the Hekla Center serve in the first-class restaurant there.

Incentive tours, mystery tours, company outings

Hotel Leirubakki is not just open during the summers, but rather, all year round. In the fall, winter, and spring, outside the peak summer-holiday period, Leirubakki is a very popular place for meetings, conferences, and all sorts of mystery tours, incentive tours, and company outings.

There are good conference facilities at Leirubakki, and high-speed Internet connections. The staff of Hotel Leirubakki puts pride and effort into making guests feel comfortable, and eagerly assists in making their stay memorable, through evenings of entertainment, storytelling, trips in the vicinity, etc.

Swimming pool, hot tubs, northern lights, midnight sun- Leirubakki has an abundance of naturally hot water, which is not only used to heat all of the buildings on the farm, but is also used for the swimming pool and hot tubs. A very popular activity is relaxing in the hot water after a long day of sightseeing or meetings. During the winter, guests often enjoy the fantastic spectacle of the northern lights, and in the summers the midnight sun is enchanting, making the night as bright as the day. Hotel Leirubakki also has a sauna, and it is possible to order a massage, hairstyling, or beauty treatment, as one wishes.

Traditional food and drink.

The restaurant at Leirubakki is new and very high-quality, standing in comparison to the best restaurants in any big city. On the menu are beef and lamb steaks, as well as delicious fish from the rivers and lakes around Leirubakki, not to mention seafood from the North Atlantic itself, which surrounds Iceland. It is also possible to order traditional Icelandic dishes as appetizers or hors d'oeuvres, sometimes in old, stone-walled buildings. Examples of such delicacies include rotten shark, flatbread made of rye-meal and served with butter, smoked lamb, lamb liver pâté, or dried fish— and what could be better than to wash this down with Black Death schnapps and cold Icelandic beer?
